

Mädchen* und junge Frauen* nach Flucht in der Migrationsgesellschaft

Refugee Girls* and Young Women* in Immigrant Societies

North Rhine – Westphalia wants to open new perspectives for refugee children and adolescents in the region and provide them spaces for empowerment and opportunity. Nevertheless, there is still much work to be done.

The project Refugee Girls* and Young Women* in Immigrant Societies aims to contribute by thinking about gender-specific difference-sensitive concepts for advancing work with girls* and young women* who have fled from other countries.

We want to help...

- ... ensure that the experiences, resources and perspectives of girls* receive more attention
- ... strengthen the empowerment efforts in public social programmes for girls* and young women* who have fled from other countries
- ... increase opportunities for access to and participation in recreational activities, education and the job market
- ... improve regulations for child and youth welfare while raising awareness about gender and racism issues in work with refugee girls* in immigrant societies

...by ...

- ... identifying the needs of girls* and young women with experiences as refugees
- ... conducting training programmes and expert consultations for pedagogical workers and the interested public
- ... developing recommendations for gender-specific work in the areas of asylum, migration and anti-racism

For child and youth welfare workers and the interested public we also offer:

- ... training, consultation and practical reflection
- ... communication and public relations work
- ... networking opportunities
